

Groundbreaking Held For Veterans Memorial Park

A large gathering was on hand on Tuesday, August 30, at the grounds of the National Security Insurance Company, in Elba, to view the official groundbreaking ceremonies for a "Veterans Memorial Park" which will be constructed on a two-acre tract at the company's headquarters.

National Security president Jack R. Brunson told those in attendance that the plans for the memorial had been originated years earlier, but that the upcoming "Alabama Reunion" had provided the spark that will turn the plan into a reality.

"This park is being established for the men and women from Coffee County who served with honor to protect our country," said Brunson. "It has been an ambition of mine for many years to construct such a memorial and I am very proud here today to reveal the plans for the memorial and take part in the beginning of its construction. Alabama and Coffee County sent thousands of brave citizens to the armed forces during times of need and many never returned. This monument is in honor of those brave soldiers who gave the ultimate sacrifice."

Pointing out that the monument was to honor those who served in all branches of the armed service, Brunson introduced five local servicemen who represented five separate branches. Those introduced, who also took part in the groundbreaking ceremonies, included James Deane, Marines; Haywood Grimes, Army; Horace Wood, Air Force; Roscoe Deal, Coast Guard and James Meredith, Navy.

The first phase of the park will feature a five-pointed star, which will symbolize the five branches of service, and will include a flag representing each branch of service at the points of the star. The star will be elevated to emphasize that those who served went "above and beyond the call of duty."

The five-point theme will be carried out throughout the park, with five walking lanes leading to the star, five steps leading to the elevated star, five spouts at the fountain and five steps up to the adjoining plaza.

The first phase, expected to be completed for a formal dedication ceremony on November 10, 1988, will cost approximately $40,000 and construction on the phase will begin within days.

The second phase will include a memorial with the names of all Coffee County veterans who served during the wars and conflicts and there will also be a place dedicated to those who served their country in the National Guard and reserve units.

"We believe that it is no less patriotic to serve in the guard or reserve and many brave men and women were called into active duty and never returned," said Brunson. "It is our plan to also honor these brave Americans."

Upon completion, the park will be open around the clock and will include an electronic eye that will trigger music and an introduction to the park.

A plaque will be placed at the base of the area housing the National Security corporate flag and will include words written by Barry Brunson, the son of Mr. Jack R. Brunson.

"to honor those brave soldiers who made the ultimate sacrifice."

BRUNSON ADDRESSES CROWD...Jack R. Brunson, president of the National Security Insurance Company, welcomed a large gathering to the groundbreaking of the new "Veterans Memorial Park," to be located on company grounds, in Elba. The first phase of the park is expected to be completed prior to Veteran's Day and formal dedication is slated in November, 1988.

*As ages pass, let this monument stand
To remind us of the wars we have fought.
Of the sons we have sacrificed, not to glorify the war
But to remember why we fought so that blood was not spilled in vain.
That the bell may always ring
That Lady Liberty may stand tall
That our flag will always fly!*

GROUNDBREAKING HONORS ARMED FORCES...A representative of each branch of the United States armed forces was present to take part in groundbreaking ceremonies last week for the "Veterans Memorial Park." Taking part were (l-r) Roscoe Deal - Coast Guard; Haywood Grimes - Army; James DeVane - Marines; Jack Brunson - NSIC president; Horace Wood - Air Force and James Meredith - Navy.

New Brockton Native Discovers Opportunities for Future

Debra Hardwick of New Brockton came to Enterprise State Junior College to discover her future. "I did not want to go to a four-year college not knowing what I wanted to major in," says Debra.

Debra is undecided on a major but since she likes math and science, she is considering engineering and the medical field. Meanwhile, she is attending ESJC on a scholarship. She is a member of the Tau Mu chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, the national honor fraternity for two-year colleges. And, she works at Kitchen's.

"I was scared coming from such a small place," says Debra. "I was afraid I would not be able to handle a college. But so far I've realized I can handle it. College gives you a more independent way of dealing with things - you have to do things for yourself such as homework and extra credit. You have opportunities and you determine what to make of them."

Debra offers encouragement to anyone who hasn't decided what to do about college yet. "Go ahead and go to college and take the general classes. There isn't any pressure on you to figure out what you want to do right away. Then eventually you will figure out what you want to do. The main thing is to get started."

Focus on your future this fall at Enterprise State Junior College. It could be the discovery of a lifetime.

Register now! Fall quarter classes begin September 19.

Coffee County Commission agrees to sell health office in Enterprise

The Coffee County Commission met in regular session on Monday, Sept. 12 at the courthouse in Elba and agreed to make preliminary plans on the sale of the building now housing the county's health department offices in Enterprise.

County attorney Warren Rowe told the commissioners that in his opinion they needed to advertise that the building was for sale and to place stipulations in the sale contract to allow the health department to remain in the building until a new office complex is constructed.

Rowe stated that the commission could place a clause in the contract that would allow the health department to use the building "rent free" for a period of 18-24 months and also stipulate that the county be paid at the time of the sale.

Commission chairman Marion Brunson stated he was not against the sale of the building or the construction of a new building, but warned the commission not to "sell the house until you have another one to move in to."

Rowe again said it would cause no problem if the health department remained in the building after its sale and the commission agreed to advertise the building as being for sale, with Commissioners Robert Stevens and Jimmy Bryan voting against the plan.

County engineer Mark Pool presented the commission with a detailed study showing the expense incurred by allowing seven employees of the county's highway department to take their county vehicles home at night.

According to Pool's statistics, the seven vehicles travel a total of approximately 40,000 miles per year going to and from the employees' homes at an annual estimated expense of $1,900.

"Being so close to Ft. Rucker makes it hard to keep good employees," stated Pool, "and I feel the additional cost of $1,900 to allow these employees to take their vehicles home is not that bad. It's certainly cheaper than it would take hire and train equally qualified men."

Pool also added that the employees having access to their vehicles 24-hours a day helped in case of emergency however, Comm. Eugene Bradley reported that last week a school bus was stuck in a ditch on a dirt road for almost two hours and he couldn't get a man with a truck to get the bus out.

"In my opinion," declared Bradley, "when you can't get a school bus filled with children out of a ditch it is an emergency."

Pool responded by asking the commissioners if they wanted him to provide a "low service," a statement that drew no response.

Bradley then made a motion that all highway department vehicles be parked at night at the county shop except the vehicle issued to the engineer and road superintendent. The motion died for the lack of a second.

In other action at Monday's meeting, the commission:

received four bids ranging from $86,377.50 to $116,912.89 to extend sewerage lines to the site on which the new county health department office complex is to be built, in Enterprise;

accepted the low bid of $6,845 for the purchase of a hot pot for the highway department;

accepted the low bid from Heath Oil of $4,695.80 for gasoline and diesel fuel for county vehicles;

accepted the low bid of $9,432.80 for the purchase of road signs;

agreed to proceed with condemnation proceedings on land adjacent to the county jail in an attempt to get a clear deed to the property;

went into executive session to meet with a disgruntled highway department employee;

adopted a resolution allowing the Macedonia Water System to cross county roadways in expansion plans;

was informed that recent leveling of county roads and the use of g-treatment had cost approximately $234,000;

agreed to send out invitations to bid on pipe, stone and gas;

transferred $8,000 in the appraisal budget from equipment to travel;

agreed to accept bids on a county depository, pest control and health insurance;

agreed to adopt a plan allowing employees to take retirement after 25 years;

and, sent out invitations to bid on a 125' X 200' building to be constructed at the Farm Center complex.

Fred Moore elected new mayor by 30 vote margin

Elba voters again went to the polls in record numbers Tuesday to elect Fred Moore mayor in the municipal run-off election. The September election attracted 1567 voters, a record for Elba but that record was struck from the books this week when 1690 voters expressed their preferences and put a new mayor in office.

Moore won with 860 votes compared to 830 for incumbent mayor Bob English. Moore carried beats #2, #3 and #5 while English earned #1 and #4. English carried #4 by seven votes while gathering a hefty majority of 145 in #1. Moore carried #2 by 63 votes; #3 by 83 votes and #5 by 40 votes.

Also elected were three council members. John W. Sharpless was the only council member seeking re-election this week and he won in District 2 by a vote of 206 to 144 for his challenger Sonny Inman.

There was no incumbent in District 3 (across the bridge) and Eddie Vaughan defeated Earl McCollough by a vote of 183 to 166, a fourteen-vote margin.

The District five race was the closest with Randy Betsold defeating Fred Qualls by only three votes. The vote there was 189 for Betsold to 186 for Qualls.

The September election decided the winners in District 1 and 4 with incumbent Gladys Yelverton returning to office for a second term in #1 while newcomer Bill Brunson won in a two-man race in #4.

Tuesday night an obviously elected Fred Moore said, "I feel honored to have been elected and I thank the voters for placing their trust in me. I renew my pledge to be a people's mayor and will work for all the people alike, regardless of how they voted in today's election."

He continued with, "I will work for the betterment of Elba, will work with the council 100 percent and they will be in on any actions 100 percent."

Moore interrupted the congratulations of well-wishers to say, "I also want to thank my wife Jean because I couldn't have done this without her undying help and support."

Incumbent mayor Bob English said after getting the results, "It is obvious the people wanted a change. I wish the City of Elba the best for the next four years. I also thank the people who voted for me Tuesday and express admiration to all those who turned out to vote Tuesday. The keen interest in city politics is very healthy for the long-term future of the community."

The absentee votes were also heavier than in September, with 63 voters being counted in this category. English won with these voters by a vote of 43 to 20.

These absentee votes helped decide a council election. In District 5 the most-vote winning margin was possible only after adding in the six absentee votes, four for Betsold and two for Qualls. They didn't have any effect on District 5, as the twelve absentees there split their vote 6 and 6. In District 2 there were 24 absentees and they voted 14 for Sharpless and 10 for Inman.

The new administration will take office on the first Monday in October which is October 3rd. However on Wednesday morning following the election Moore was in city hall at 8 a.m. getting ready for a smooth transition of administrations.

New Brockton mayor's race ends in deadlock 215-215

The voters of New Brockton have an unusual situation, with both candidates for mayor getting 215 votes in Tuesday's run off election. Incumbent Jim Driskell and council member Robert Miles were able to get their supporters out in equal force but that left a problem that is in the hands of the lawyers at presstime Wednesday morning. An 11 a.m. council meeting Wednesday with the city attorney was scheduled, according to City Clerk Molly Woods.

In the only New Brockton council race on the ballot Tuesday Ralph Modley defeated Katherine Holley by a vote of 72 to 37.

BLEED THROUGH

BRAINSTORMS

By Ferrin Cox, Publisher

The city elections are over and Elba will get a new mayor in October. We don't know what will happen in New Brockton where the two run-off candidates are tied in final balloting. We are kinda glad the elections are over, as tempers were beginning to get a little short among supporters of the two mayoral candidates in Elba. We do admire the attitudes of the city council candidates. There was probably more hard work on the part of these candidates than any time in recent years, yet they have largely kept the campaign on the up-and-up and have remained friends. We had two losing candidates visit our office early Tuesday evening and both felt good about the support they had received and neither expressed any bitterness over losing. . . . we probably couldn't be that big about the matter and this is another reason for us to keep our name off the ballots.

We have not harassed the Coffee County commissioners over their operations for several years, since we stopped attending their meetings on a regular basis. At that time we had almost got them stopped from a mass use of county vehicles for private purposes, such as going back and forth to work and maybe stopping at the grocery store, etc. Well, gradually more and more workers have been allowed to use these vehicles, and apparently someone else is complaining now. We still don't like this use of our tax monies and those employees who have been around all these years have heard us complain before. Regardless of how little extra it may or may not cost the county, it ain't right and we still don't like it at all.

There was a "public" hearing this week at city hall concerning a recreation grant application. We put the word public in quotes because it takes a good imagination to believe the public was invited. Late Friday or maybe Monday morning the notice was posted on a city hall bulletin board and a few interested parties were told by word of mouth. Other than that, no word to anyone. This project is no doubt a good one but Pea River has been flowing for more years than we can count and it should continue to flow for a few more days, so we wonder why everything was so rush-rush (or hush-hush). If the grant is approved for the $10,000 and then some auditor later finds out the regulations were not followed and wants the money repaid. . . . please don't ask me to help 'cause I simply don't have the $10,000 to pay them. Maybe we can get the folks who are so gung-ho on doing this right now to sign a paper promising to cover the grant repayment if someone demands it be repaid. If the folks in Dothan who are pushing this KNOW it will be okay, then maybe they will guarantee the money for us.

The Coffee County Democratic Party held a gathering last Saturday in the rain. The bad weather probably turned away some people, but over a thousand faithful showed up for the event. Maybe the age-old idea of feeding the hungry was the key as it was in years past when real political rallies were held around the county. Whatever the reason, we salute the organizers of the event for a job well done.

We had just begun to have signs of relief over missing the hurricane when the news reporters started telling us of another heading this way. The bad part is that this one is considered the strongest in recorded history. We don't wish anyone bad luck, but hope this thing hits somewhere else rather than on the coast of Alabama and/or Florida. Either one of these will mean a lot of bad weather for Number 1 (me). Probably if we are going to get a little prayer it would be proper to hope this thing dies in the Gulf of Mexico without causing any more damage.

The presidential elections are just around the corner and the race has turned into a real contest. At present our favorite is leading, but those things change so fast and polls are so fickle that we still don't have any idea of just who will be the next president of the U.S.

"The club has been directly and indirectly involved in providing over $1400 in services this year, and donated $600 to Alabama Sight Conservation Association," says Dr. M.V. Miles, Lions Sight Conservation chairman. According to Dr. Miles, Drs. Strong and Purvis provided the club with the examinations at no charge and glasses at a reduced charge. "The support of the community has been most generous," added Dr. Miles.

Letters To Editor

Dear Editor,
I am writing to your readers in response to a recent article which appeared describing the former mayor of Florida, H.T. Mathis, as "soft-hearted" and "hurt."

Mathis said he was "hurt" after being impeached and removed from office having been found guilty of corruption, willful neglect of duty, incompetency and moral turpitude. Mathis was described as "soft-hearted" by his attorney, James Prestwood. I wonder, if one of Mr. Prestwood's grandchildren was killed by a drunk driver who had been pardoned by Mayor Mathis, would he still describe him as "soft-hearted" or care whether or not he had been "hurt" for having been removed from office. Mayor Mathis endangered the lives of innocent people through pardoning drivers and others of such charges as reckless endangerment, eluding police, and assault and battery.

Mathis' impeachment and removal from office is a very good sign and serves as notice that our society is no longer willing to risk the lives of innocent citizens to accommodate the irresponsible behavior of drunk drivers.

Yours very truly,
LORI ALLEN SIEGELMAN

Clark Clifford tells the story about when he taught Emily Post, the etiquette expert, a trick or two about manners and protocol. The setting was a White House dinner during the years Clifford served the Truman administration as Secretary of State. Everyone was enjoying the first course of the meal, when Clifford noticed he was minus a salad. He carefully counted the salad plates set in front of each diner, and when he was certain of his calculations, he turned to Mrs. Post. "I understand that you're something of an expert on etiquette," Clifford said to Emily Post. "Oh yes," Mrs. Post replied, "I've written a number of books on the subject." "Then you know a great deal about manners," Clifford continued, "and I'm sure you can help me with this problem." "Of course," answered Mrs. Post. "Why my latest book deals with protocol at impressive dinners."

"I'm glad to hear that," said Clifford, "but now tell me why you are eating my salad." Everyone makes mistakes, even so-called "experts." The human condition is one of failure and frustration. The irony of our existence is, the harder we try, the more mistakes we tend to make. At some point, we all "miss the mark." The Bible calls that tendency, "sin." The biblical word for sin suggests the imagery of an archer who has "missed the mark." It's a good image. We know the expectations. We are well-versed in our responsibilities. But far too often we end up "missing the mark." You bump into that friend with whom you've just had a regrettable spat, and you are reminded of how you have "missed the mark." You hear some loose talk you know you've shared with someone else, and you are reminded of how you have "missed the mark." The church newsletter is the first item you pick up in the mailbox, and you realize you haven't been very faithful in your attendance and your service. You're reminded of how you have "missed the mark." We all "miss the mark." But we can be grateful to God that He provided for our transgressions in the gift of His Son, our Lord Jesus Christ. Christ does for us what we cannot do for ourselves. Christ gave of Himself on the cross for forgiveness of our "misses," and he gives of His presence that we might be encouraged to keep going. So live within the confines of gracious presence. Experience God's forgiveness in Jesus Christ, and then share that forgiveness with someone else who has "missed the mark." We all make mistakes. But God in Christ does not hold them against us. The least we can do is not to hold them against our friends and neighbors either.

Seniors Of Cordelia Street Meet
What a great day when the Senior Citizens met for their weekly meeting at the HRDC Building on September 8.

Rev. Galloway came and played the piano for us and it was very enjoyable. Others played dominoes and worked on another puzzle. Some of our members were absent and Mary Longfellow is out with sickness again. She is surely missed. News was exchanged and the nice weather sure was much about. The featured member this week is Myrl Burkett. She is a lifelong resident of Elba. Myrl lives on Highway 87, just outside the city limits. She stays busy with her chickens, garden, pets, sewing, and hobbies. Myrl is always busy and helps with the weekly Citizens meeting. Also it was Thelma Dugan's birthday and we had cake and sang happy birthday. A delicious lunch was served to the following: Rustie Blanton, Myrl Burkett, Frank and Lennie McCollough, Thelma Dugan, Helen McCahan, Grace Goodson, Arthur Blackmon, Sarah Smith, Mavin and Winslow Matthews, Jean Mauldin, Aileen English, Rev. Galloway, Mozell McCormick, Cora McBride, M. Boling and Wanda Sasser.

ANSWERS! TO YOUR BIBLE QUESTIONS!
What is the role of the husband in the Christian home?
Concerning the husband, Paul writes, "the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church" (Eph. 5:23). The husband's headship in the Christian home means that he has tremendous responsibilities both to his wife and to his family. Having discussed the role of the wife in the Christian home, Peter summarizes the role of the husband. "Likewise, you husbands, dwell with them according to knowledge, giving honor unto the wife, as unto the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the grace of life; that your prayers be not hindered" (1 Peter 3:7). Peter first advises husbands to "dwell with them according to knowledge." This means much more than living with a wife, sharing meals and the bedroom, but it literally means to have the closest of relationships, a kind of "deep down" togetherness. Upon this foundation, initiated by the husband, the marriage relationship is built. Too often the husband is merely a passive provider, rather than an active head of the home. Among the qualifications for elders, the ideal for all husbands, the elder is to be one who "ruleth (manages) well his own house" (1 Tim. 3:4-5). "Dwelling" with a wife rules out the substitution so many men make in the home, that of "providing a living," instead of sharing a life. Peter advises husbands to "dwell with them according to knowledge." The success a husband has in dwelling with his wife will be in direct proportion to how well he knows her. The husband should know the deepest fears, longings, goals, and cares of his wife. This can be known only when the lines of communication are open and working. Lack of communication in marriage has been called "Marriage's Number One Killer." The attitude every husband and wife should have is expressed in these words of love: "O my dove, thou art in the clefts of the rock, in the secret places of the stars, let me see thy countenance, let me hear thy voice; for sweet is thy voice, and thy countenance is lovely" (Song of Solomon 2:14). The role of the husband might be summed up in Peter's command for the husband to be "giving honor unto the wife." Chivalry is largely unknown today. There was really no such thing in first century, when wives had little or no rights. But the man following in Christ's steps will try to be that "knight in shining armor" his wife needs. "Giving honor" literally means to "grant," or "assign" honor to the wife, simply because she is a wife. While most men really do love and honor their wives, that love and honor is not demonstrated often enough. When this is shown, the husband and wife will have a true partnership in the home, and barriers between God and man will be lowered. ©1988 by Bob Prichard, P.O. Box 269, Elba, AL 36323. Coleman Attends Governors School

Lee Coleman completed the Alabama Governor's School at Sanford University during the 1988 session held June 19 - July 1. Each participant took both a major and minor course of study, and was part of a team for recreational activities. Besides going on field trips related to classes, the entire Alabama Governor's School group went to hear the Alabama Symphony Yops Concert and visit the Alabama Sports Hall of Fame Museum, the Birmingham Museum of Art, NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, and the Alabama Space and Rocket Center. Faculty and guest speakers included outstanding scholars, government officials, and recognized leaders from the private sector. The students enjoyed sharing new ideas, attending advanced courses, and hearing Astronaut Lichtenberg from Wellesley, MA, and Director General Good from Washington, D.C. They also relished the college environment and being with academically excellent students from all over the state of Alabama. Anyone with any school news for "Tiger Tales" may see a staff member or Mr. Carney. All school news must be turned in by Mr. Carney by recess every Thursday. Talented Elba Native Finds Future and Friends at ESJC

Bill Bruckner of Elba loves to sing. So while he is pursuing his education in marketing, he's putting his talent to work. As a member of the ESJC Singers, Bill attends Enterprise State on a performing arts scholarship.

"I like Enterprise State. It is nice to have something like ESJC this close to home to get you ready for a larger university," says Bill. "My classes have been real organized. I like all of my instructors. They are always willing to help and talk with you after class if you need it."

When Bill initially came to Enterprise State, he found new friends. "It was easy to meet people - especially in the Singers. After knowing them a week it was as if I'd known them forever."

Bill discovered other things about himself as well. "I think I have grown up a lot since I started at ESJC," says Bill. "I have learned to make more decisions on my own."

New ACT Program Slated For EHS

By: Melissa Pritchard
Elba High School sophomores will have an opportunity this fall to participate in an exciting program being offered by the American College Testing Program (ACT). Mike Carney was contacted by ACT this past winter, and Elba High was invited to participate in this educational service. The program is called "P-ACT" (pronounced "P-ACT-plus"). Purpose of the program is to give sophomores an early start on planning and preparing for their futures. It is a non-competitive activity that focuses on letting sophomores know where they presently stand in relation to academic skills and abilities, career interests and options, knowledge of effective study skills, and personal needs, plans, and goals.

P-ACT will provide students with the kind of information they can use to plan and prepare for the post-high school years. By having this information in the sophomore year, students will have at least two full years to take the types of courses and participate in the types of activities that will best complement future plans and goals. The P-ACT program will be available to all Elba High School sophomores and will be offered on Oct. 25, for a total cost of $5.00. Students can receive more information on the program or sign up by contacting Mike Carney, Elba High School guidance counselor. All sophomores are encouraged to participate -- it will help you focus on your future.

TAKE A BITE OUT OF CRIME
By: Stephanie Goodson
A program with McGruff the Crime Dog was started this year at all three county schools. Mrs. Shirley Goodson, teacher's aide, is conducting the program at Zion Chapel Elementary School. The crime action program consists of 32 complete lessons for each class, and a McGruff puppet, which is about three feet tall and is dressed in plaid pants and a beige trench coat. Once a week Mrs. Goodson spends around 30 minutes with each class, kindergarten through sixth grade. At the beginning of this time, she asks the children questions about past lessons to see how much they remember, then the topic for the day is introduced, with Mrs. Goodson asking questions to see if anyone already knows something about it. Next, they listen to a song and story given by McGruff, and once again students are asked questions to see how well they listened to the lesson. The main reason for starting the McGruff program is to inform the students about safety, crime, child abuse, and many other important topics.

Homecoming Activities To Begin Sept. 22 With Pep Rally & Bonfire

By: Jackie Herbert
Homecoming activities for this year will include a bonfire pep rally, door decorating, and a parade. The activities will begin with the bonfire pep rally on Thursday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 on the practice field behind the elementary building. The door decorating and parade will be held on Friday, Sept. 23, with parade to begin at 1:30 p.m. to be followed by a pep rally on the football field. The class with the largest percentage of its membership in attendance at the bonfire will receive time out of the class of their choice for an ice cream social. Students in grades 7 - 12 only attending the bonfire should write their name on a slip of paper and give it to one of their class sponsors at the pep rally. Instead of counting bodies, the number of people present will be determined by counting the slips of paper. Students will be allowed to work on parade floats and door decorations between break and second lunch on Friday, Sept. 23. Students should not be allowed out of class before then to work on decorations or floats. Parade chairman Rachel Bryan devised five rules that must be followed when designing and building floats. They can be no longer than six feet, can be hand-carried or pulled by a four-wheeler, can be pulled by nothing larger than a four-wheeler, all decorations must be original Zion Chapel made; no more than $50 can be spent by a particular class on a float. A first-place plaque will be awarded each to the best high school float and to the best elementary school float.

ZION CHAPEL RECEIVES YEARBOOKS
By: Todd Rupp
There was lots of excitement at Zion Chapel High School last Wednesday when the long-awaited Rebel 88 yearbook arrived. Mrs. Rachel Bryan, yearbook sponsor, said she was very pleased with the yearbook and its cover because it was the first one to follow along with the theme throughout the book. Mrs. Bryan wasn't the only one proud of the Rebel 88 - many other people who were asked felt it was the best one yet. In addition to the excitement generated by the yearbook arriving, more was stirred up by the selection of Rebel 88 editor. Jackie Herbert was named editor-in-chief for the 1989 yearbook. Jackie is a senior and has been a yearbook staff member for two years. She is also a member of the Beta Club and has chosen to take courses from the advanced curriculum, working toward an advanced diploma. She is the daughter of Mary Herbert who teaches at Zion Chapel, and Jack Herbert, a member of the Coffee County Sheriff's Dept.

STUDENTS WORK ON SUMMER YOUTH PROGRAM
By: JoAnn Culver
Zion Chapel High School had four students working under the 1988 Summer Youth Employment and Training Program. They were Toray Haynes, Derrick Coleman, Leticia Smith, and Melissa Johnson (Pictured L-R). The three young men helped Mr. Martin Mobley with grass cutting, painting, chalkboards, varnishing floors, and general cleaning. Melissa did office work such as answering the telephone, filing papers, and organizing things for the upcoming school opening. Principal Nelson Whitehurst said these students and Mr. Mobley were a tremendous help to the school. They worked hard and took pride in what they did to improve the school and campus.

First Grade Teachers Meet With Parents To Discuss Student Needs

By: Lisa Holcomb
Parent meetings were held Thursday night, Sept. 1, by the first grade teachers, Mrs. Peggy Storey and Mrs. Eileen Helms. These meetings took place to discuss the many things that go on in the classrooms. For instance, they talked about the children's schedules, why homework is assigned and why it is important. Another topic which was discussed was how the parents can help with homework, such as phonics; this is an exercise to help the children with their pronunciation skills. Mrs. Storey and Mrs. Helms were very satisfied with the parent participation. After the teachers spoke, parents asked questions which mostly pertained to behavior and discipline and how this is handled. The parents were invited to come back at any time to observe the classes.

Gamecocks rip W.S. Neal 14-8

By: Greg Brunson

The New Brockton Gamecocks survived a sloppy first half, which included three lost fumbles and two errant punt attempts, in posting a big 14-8 come-from-behind victory over the W.S. Neal Eagles.

As the game began, New Brockton was unable to gain yardage on their first possession. On fourth down, the snap sailed over the head of punter Matt Rodgers. Rodgers recovered in the end zone, giving W.S. Neal a safety and a 2-0 lead with 9:38 left in the first quarter.

Neither team was able to threaten in the first quarter, with the only turnover being a Keith Godbolt fumble recovery for W.S. Neal.

The Eagles had excellent field position early in the second quarter as they took over on the New Brockton 25 following a mishandled snap on a punt attempt.

W.S. Neal managed only one first down before the Gamecock defense stiffened. Jeff Miller booted a 32-yard field goal with 8:04 remaining in the first half to extend the Eagles' lead to 5-0.

The next three possessions all ended in fumbles, with Johnny Swain and Keith Godbolt recovering for the Eagles and Qn Burrows getting the lone Gamecock recovery.

Jeff Miller drilled a 40-yard field goal with only 1:18 to go in the half to stretch the Eagles' lead to 8-0.

The Gamecocks bounced back quickly as Louis Page returned the ensuing kickoff for 87 yards and a touchdown! Page went up the middle of the field, cut to the right sideline and outraced the defenders to the endzone. Matt Rodgers passed to Robert Kilow for the two-point conversion, knotting the score at 8-8 with 1:04 to play in the second quarter.

On their first possession of the second half, New Brockton wasted little time in taking the lead. The Gamecocks drove 73 yards in just 4 plays, with Louis Page going the last 55 yards on a beautiful cutback play. William Moguel's extra point attempt sailed wide left, leaving the score - New Brockton 14 - W.S. Neal 8, with 8:16 to go in the third quarter.

New Brockton had a chance to blow the game open as Greg Sowell recovered a Reggie Benjamin fumble at the Neal 35-yard line on the very next snap. But again on the first snap, the ball was turned over as Anthony Bradley intercepted a Matt Rodgers pass at the Eagles' 30-yard line.

W.S. Neal put together a 13-play drive down to the Gamecocks 10-yard line before the defense rose up and stopped the drive. The middle of the line broke through to block a 27-yard field-goal attempt to halt this threat.

On their next possession the Eagles put together a 15-play drive that went from their own 47 to the New Brockton three-yard line. The defense again bowed their necks and held on a brilliant goal-line stand. The Gamecock defense had one more challenge before the game was over.

On fourth down, Shannon Clark rushed quarterback Greg Lowery and Louis Page hit the intended receiver as the Gamecocks took over on downs with 1:08 remaining in the game.

New Brockton ran two plays to run out the clock, finishing the exciting 14-8 victory.

The bulk of the Gamecock offense was supplied by Louis Page with 93 yards on 14 carries and one kick-return for 87 yards, and two touchdowns.

New Brockton will be at home again this Friday night as they do battle with the Cottonwood Bears. Game time is 7:30. Come on out!

BULLDOGS TALK IT OVER...Kinston's Coach Trent Taylor talks with Bulldog players during a timeout in last week's 25-6 loss to Florida. The loss dropped the Bulldogs' record to 1-2 for the young season with a trip to Samson coming up this week.

Florida surprises Kinston 25-6

It was a good night to be a frog! The Kinston Bulldogs and Florida Wildcats tangled Friday night in the midst of a driving rainstorm and after sloshing through puddles for four quarters it was the Wildcats who claimed the win, 25-6, at Kinston.

Florida picked off a Bulldog pass in the first quarter to put the Wildcats in business near midfield, but the Kinston defense turned back the challenge and later in the stanza came up with a turnover of its own as Andy Speller intercepted a Florida pass to seal the Bulldog offense up at the Florida 23-yardline.

Kinston moved to a quick first down and got as close as the Wildcat 7-yardline, but on fourth down a field-goal attempt by Chris Austin sailed wide and the Bulldog threat was ended.

Kinston's Joe Martin recovered a Florida fumble at the Bulldog 43-yardline midway through the second quarter and the Bulldog offense again headed toward the Wildcat goalline, only to be stopped short on a fake punt on fourth down.

It appeared as if the half would end without any scoring, however Florida caught the Bulldog defense napping with less than a minute left in the half and got on the scoreboard when quarterback Mike Gardner lofted a 40-yard scoring pass to Boo Hill. The two-point try was successful and with only 49 left in the half Florida was on top 8-0.

Kinston received the second half kick, but kept the ball for only two plays before giving the ball to Florida on a fumble.

Florida couldn't get into the endzone, but did manage to get back on the board as Mike Gardner hit on a 23-yard field goal with 8:18 left in the quarter to up the Wildcats' lead to 11-0.

Kinston was down, but not out, and showed signs of life on its next series. A 27-yard pass from Joe Martin to Andy Speller got the drive off to a quick start and it

New Brockton quarterback Matt Rodgers (12) ignores a pass rush as he looks downfield in the Gamecocks' 14-8 win last week over W.S. Neal. The win upped New Brockton's record to 3-0 on the season.

Kinston's Corky Matthews (11) reaches for a pass during the Bulldogs' recent win over Wicksburg. Kinston saw its record dip to 1-2 last week as the Bulldogs fell to the Florida Wildcats 25-7.

looked like the Bulldogs would get on the scoreboard only seconds later when Scott Edwards broke free on a reverse, however, Edwards lost the handle on the ball and Florida recovered to kill the scoring chance!

A fumble at the Kinston 15-yardline gave Florida the opportunity to extend its lead and the Wildcats did just that as two plays later the combination of Gardner to Hill clicked on a 10-yard touchdown pass. The p.a.t. was good and with 1:11 left in the third quarter the Florida lead was up to 18-0.

Kinston's Lamar Hudson intercepted a Florida pass early in the first stanza and the Bulldogs took advantage of the turnover to get on the scoreboard.

The drive took 11 plays and was climaxed when Chad Keith scored on a 6-yard scamper. A two-point try failed, but with 6:31 left in the game there was still hope as Kinston had cut the Wildcat lead to 18-6.

A 25-yard touchdown pass from Gardner to Torren Lewis closed the scoring for the night and

That Old School Breeze Has Blown Again

By: Faye Brown
Moundville, AL.

My memory cannot be second guessed; this morning I forgot my best friend's name, tonight the gentle breeze and the Katydids' sound awakened memories of one, two, three...even four decades past. Being pushingly sentimental, my most vivid memories seem always to be aroused by a glimpse of nature, a distant sound, a whiff of a fragrance, or a certain atmospheric condition.

Walking alone in today's lengthening shadows, it was the cool draft of air that turned the leaves upside down and snatched me backward, then forward, to elicit smiles and tears. The after-rain wind played unfairly, triggering my September memories before August was off the stage.

But there it was--just one drift of the 'memory breeze' and I was running from the school bus, a girl in pigtails, exuberant over first grade adventures and yet strangely warmed in the late evening air by the looming sanctuary of home and Mama.

Next, the same wind swept me between dorm and library, mixing excitement over my life's first role as a college coed and the chill over the approaching night and family separation.

Then I was a mother, waiting for the school bus to bear three home-ward ere the coolness of the day settled in like a wedge blocking them out.

'Yes, that 'school breeze' swept in early this year. As I pulled my shirt closer and walked faster tugging, 'You've had your last year in PTA, Mama Dear.' Nearing home my memory tip expanded to a conversation I'd had the morning my youngest embarked on first grade.

'Is it really true', my sister-with-two-babies-in-town had inquired, 'that having the last one enter first grade leaves a mother depressed?' I recall responding laughingly, 'This leisure morning coffee on the deck leaves me everything but depressed--I'm ecstatic!'

But now the tables had turned. Could the years have passed that quickly? Could time have flown so swiftly? Panic swept over me--"I must somehow stop the ruthless wind!" I was helpless.

Rushing inside to escape him, he just blew past me. He rustled the Back-to-School Sale papers lying on the table. He disturbed my impulsive, automatic list-wide-rubbed tapes, big pencils, crayolas, a new lunch kit, Elmer's glue, small scissors...

Facing reality I reached out and crushed the list. The Back-to-School Sale papers, unused, their ink smeared only with my tears, I folded for the trash. I stood shivering in the stillness; that 'school breeze' seemed chillier than I'd ever recalled.

Faye Brown's book, Pot Likker, Pulley Bones, and Pea Vine Hay, may be purchased through The Elba Clipper.
